TO HORSE OWNERS.

Dr. Sweet's Infalible Liniment

Is unrivaled by any and is the best of all Liniments, strong from Spina, Bases or Wrenching. The effect is magical and certain. It is also a powerful Diuretic, and it will also cure speedily. Spasms and King's may be easily prevented and cured in their incipient stages, but confirmed cases are beyond the possibility of a radical cure. No case of the kind, however, is so dependent on hope as this. It is the duty of this Liniment, and its faithful application will always remove the Lumbago, and enable the horse to travel with comparative ease.

Every horse owner should have this remedy at hand for the timely use at the first symptoms of Lumbago, which will effectively prevent those formidable diseases mentioned, to which all horses are liable, and which render so many otherwise valuable horses nearly worthless.

GEN. POPES REPORT.

The Times of yesterday Gen. Popes report of the recent battle in Virginia, severely censures Fitz John Porter's conduct and speaks in the most decided terms of the skill and energy of McDowell, Banks, and Hooker and Kearney. He attributes the disaster of Saturday jointly to the bad conduct of Porter and the failure of McClellan to send him supplies. On these points he says:

"I do not hesitate to say that if the corps of Porter had attacked the enemy in flank on the afternoon of Friday, as he had my written order to do, we should have utterly crushed Jackson before the forces under Lee could have reached him, why he did not I cannot understand. Our men much worn down by hard service and continuous fighting for many previous days and very short of provisions rested on their guns, our horses had no forage for two days."

"I telegraphed and wrote urgently for rations and forage to be sent about on Saturday morning before the action was resumed. I received a letter from Gen. Franklin written the before at Alexandria stating to me that he had been directed by General McClellan to inform me that rations and forage for my command would be loaded into the cars and available wagons as soon as I would send a Cavalry escort to Alexandria to bring them up, all hopes of being able to maintain my position whether victorious or not vanished with this letter."

"My Cavalry was utterly broken down by long and constant service in the face of the enemy, and had as they were could not be spared from the front, even if there had been time to go back 30 miles to Alexandria and await the loading of trains. At the time this letter was written Alexandria was swarming with troops, and my whole army interposed between that place and the enemy; and at once understood that we must, if possible, finish what we had to do that day, as night must see us behind Bull Run if we wished to save men and animals from starvation."

FROM PORT ROYAL.

The Times Port Royal Correspondent says Gen. Hunter's policy with regard to the negroes has been adopted by the President, and five negro regts. are to be raised, armed and uniformed for the service of the United States, and that 50,000 in addition are to be enrolled to be employed in the Quartermaster's Department, nominally as laborers, but organized into companies and uniformed.

The exact time of commencing the work of enlisting the colored regts. is not stated, but it is expected to be soon.

Gen. Saxton's visit to Washington for consultation on this subject.

CAPTURE OF POOLESVILLE,

New York, 10th.

Pooleville correspondent furnish additional details of the capture of Pooleville by the rebels.

The rebels advanced on the place on Friday and moved out in some force this side. These were part of three companies of the 1st Mass Cavalry in their front observing the rebel approach. The officers in command were Capt. Motley, Capt. Chamberlain and Capt. Wells.

They formed in line by battalions and by their steadiness in front and skillful disposition delayed the rebel advance for hours and finally Gen. Lee sent 10 miles to the rear for Artillery to disperse the force he supposed to be in front of him, before the artillery this handful of men was of course compelled to retire and as soon as their movements in a column disclosed the weakness of their force the rebel cavalry gathered heart and came on at the charge.

It was two to one and there was nothing for it but to get off as rapidly as possible. The road had been cleared in the morning and was covered upon for an unobstructed retreat, but while the maneuvering in front had consumed the day some Maryland traitor had piled stones at the worst places on the road in such quantity that the horses at a gallop could not fail to go down enveloped in clouds of dust.

The head of the retreating column came down the road at speed and plunging into the rocks the men and horses fell in confusion and piled over one another in heaps. The rebels were close upon and those who were down could only surrender. The rebels began firing upon the prostrate men and some of them were crushed under their struggling horses.

Capt. Chamberlain whose horse had fallen upon him shouted to the rebel leader that his men were helpless and the firing was ordered to cease. Capt. Motley and Capt. Wells with most of their men escaped. Capt. Chamberlain with about 20 men were captured. All were liberated next day on parole.

Before the men were sent off Gen. Lee made them a speech and advised them never to take up arms to subjugate the south. He declared that there are and must be two confederacies on this continent and disapproved at length on ethics and politics in general, by all of which the men were duly edified.

Capt. Chamberlain had a long interview with Fitz Hugh Lee and Stuart and reports that their cavalry force is very large. Pooleville citizens fired from houses along the streets on the retreating Cavalry.

At Dametown the rebels firing stones and bottles and all sorts of missiles from the windows.

The rebels considering Maryland as part of Jeff Davis dominion treat its loyal citizens as traitors and at the same time levy contributions upon them as enemies. Dr. Brace, Mr. Metzger, the post master and other prominent Union citizens of Pooleville were seized and with their families put into close confinement. When the rebels left Pooleville they carried them all into Virginia.

At Fredericks on Monday, prominent citizens hosted the rebels on the Court House. Mr. Herndon, Acting Mayor, invited them, asserting that as the occupation was transient, it was folly to unnecessarily offend the Federal Government. Bradley F. Johnson was in command as Provost Marshal, and was running about among the citizens preaching conciliation and kindness. His constant declaration was that we would be understood that we are southern gentlemen and his men are not.

The whole value of the hospital and other Government stores destroyed at Fredericks by the Rebels, did not exceed $3000 instead of $5000,000, as stated by the Washington Republic. It consisted principally of old blankets, Tents and Harness all of the most valuable stores were removed.

BURNSIDE AND McCLELLAN ALTER

THE REBELS.

The Baltimore clipper of yesterday says we learn from Col. Piper of our army who just arrived here and who passed through the pickets of the Rebel army that General Burnside's army was on their trail. General Burnside had 40,000 troops in his command. General McClellan is in the field with much larger force also enroute after the Rebel army.
